Short-term performance analysis

- In the last 12 months, the fund produced a return that was generally in line with its stated benchmark.
- The Fund's goal is to track the return and risk profile of the Dow Jones Brookfield Global Infrastructure Index. Since inception the Fund has generally performed in-line with expectations and there are no concerns. Tracking error relative to alternative benchmarks has historically been higher than for that of traditional asset classes. There are no significant concerns with the level of tracking error shown to date.

Long-term performance analysis

- The Fund has yet to build a long enough track record to accurately conduct long-term performance analysis. To-date the Fund has provided returns generally in line with expectations over the last four calendar years.

Significant corporate events

Corporate

- In September 2016, Mark Wiseman joined BlackRock as Head of Global Active Equity. A Senior Managing Director, Mark also joined the Global Executive Committee and became Chairman of the BlackRock Global Investment Committee. Mark previously served as President and Chief Executive Officer of CPP Investment Board (CPPIB).

Fund specific

- There were no significant fund specific events over the past three years.

IMS commentary

- The Global Infrastructure Index Fund (BlackRock) invests primarily in equities included in the benchmark; it may also use any other investments, including exchange traded funds and pooled funds, which when included in the fund help achieve the objective of tracking the return and risk profile of the benchmark.
- Based on our due diligence, we are confident that the Manager has remained within the stated investment philosophy and style.

Conclusion:

- Due to the fact that the Fund has produced returns that generally tracked its benchmark over the short term, IMS continues to rate this Fund In Good Standing.
