IMS commentary

- The Target Date Index Funds invests in a well diversified portfolio of underlying Fundss that are passively managed. The Funds is designed for members who are planning to retire by or around 2055. The overall portfolio mix of the Target Date Index Funds is composed of fixed income Fundss as well as domestic and foreign equity Fundss which may differ in investment manager. The underlying Fundss may also include Fundss that represent specialty or alternative asset classes and which are promoted under the i-Watch Investment Program. In order to reflect the evolving risk profile of investors as they approach their target retirement date, the Target Date Index Funds is rebalanced on a quarterly basis to its target asset allocation and this target asset allocation is then gradually realigned (on an annual basis) towards a more conservative investor profile.
- Based on our due diligence, we are confident that the manager has remained within the stated investment philosophy and style.

Conclusion:

- Due to the fact that the Funds's asset allocation and performance are in line with expectations (given its target date profile), IMS continues to rate this Fund In Good Standing.
